Dear Friends

Particularly at this time of year, we are reminded of the amazing variety in the natural world. Just the number of different species of plants, flowers and creatures we can find in our local environment is truly mind-boggling. On our recent bird-watching retreat, Michael and I helped identify 49 different species of bird – a relatively small number but a reminder of the wonderful diversity of creation. Since our return we have paid more attention to the birds in our garden and been thrilled to discover the variety even within each species – for example, identifying the juvenile goldfinches and robins.

In recent weeks, there have also been many opportunities to admire flowers and plants and the talents of our community in arranging them for our delight in gardens and flower festivals. And, of course, the variety we see around us and experience is just a small fraction of the diversity of the universe where we are told there are yet more organisms waiting to be discovered by human beings, for example in the depths of the ocean. It is surely our responsibility as human beings to preserve and celebrate this variety by protecting endangered species and not thoughtlessly destroying them.

If God is the creator of the universe, then God clearly loves diversity. In all creation, is there any evidence to show that God is into uniformity? Christians believe that there is a diversity within God which we call the Trinity – God as Father, Son and Holy Spirit. If God is love and goodness, then there is variety within love and goodness. Goodness is not sameness. Goodness needs contrast and tension, not perfect uniformity. God's goal, it seems to me, is the same in creation. It is the making of unique individuals, which means there is clear diversity and 'open-endedness' in all of nature. Let us enjoy and celebrate our wonderful world and the fact that we are all different and have different opinions, skills and talents.

Wishing you every blessing

Ruth Hatfield

Gardening gems from Ivan

Allotment keeping and gardening generally does have highs and lows. The expectation of a crop can be spoilt or totally destroyed by the activities of pest, disease or weather conditions. Pigeon damage to brassicas or peas, blackleg in potatoes and rust on garlic. Complete pest and disease control is expensive, time consuming and not very environmentally friendly. The best we can do is to purchase seeds and plants of clean stock from a reputable source. The rains of 17th, 18th and 19th May came as a great relief but because our light soils can only hold so much water against the pull of gravity more than half of that rainfall will have drained away, hence many farmers have been irrigating again to maintain soil moisture for growth and disease reduction in the case of potatoes and common scab. Too hot at times to work outside so job selection is important. Good weedkilling weather at present so keep the hoe going. Strawberry picking this weekend, the asparagus loves this weather, and the potatoes were well worth digging – totally delicious. As the asparagus started early this year we have already stopped harvesting to allow it to make good fern and build up the crowns for next season.

Shottisham's varied gardens were enjoyed by many on 25th June – thank you to everyone who helped make it such a pleasant afternoon - £669 was raised for the church and lots of fond memories of Ted Price were rekindled.
